PROJECT DETAILS

Sharkey have established a good working relationship with Aegon and Graven Images working on a variety of projects over the years. On this particular project, we were asked to fit-out their visitor reception and staff entrance.

For the visitor reception, Graven Images (Glasgow) were asked to re-brand and create a more welcoming functional reception area to coincide with the re-branding of Scottish Equitable to Aegon UK, and to create a more flexible area suitable to support the conference room when hosting events and providing additional meeting rooms.

The walnut doors create a visual connection through to the conference room and the new location and presentation of the reception desk focuses on hospitality. The new reception compliments the new executive suite with the additional glazing system and feature lighting further adding to the dynamics of the space.

For the staff entrance and shop, the brief was to provide the staff with a shop and a coffee / meeting area and to introduce security barriers.

The design solution involved breaking down areas to create the 'To Go' shop brand. Sharkey were also involved in the manufacture of a custom-built seating area and rebranded the reception desk using new materials with rich textures to reflect the new brand and to relate the space to the visitor's reception area.
